RE: 2013 Cap

For 2013, Medicare has capped the amount it will spend on physical, occupational and speech for each patient.

The cap will be $1900 for physical and speech therapy (combined and total). Co-pay and unmet deductible amounts count against the cap, so if you have met your Medicare deductible and do not receive speech therapy, Medicare will pay up to $1,520 (80% of $1,900) for your outpatient physical therapy during 2013.

Please let us know if you have received any therapy services this year prior to your treatment in our office. This may affect your coverage. Typically after 12-13 total physical or speech therapy visits for the year we will need to check pay attention to the total amount.

We will help you determine if your therapy costs are close to the cap. If you are close to the cap and you need additional therapy, we can help you choose between the following options:

1. Medicare may authorize additional therapy for certain diagnoses that it will pay for beyond the cap;
2. If you have secondary coverage, your secondary insurer may pay for costs above the cap;
3. You can pay for therapy privately.

We will do our best to provide you with the therapy services you need while minimizing your costs. If you have any questions, our receptionist can direct you to one of office staff members.
